Commerce & Industry Minister Piyush Goyal and UK Secretary of State for Trade Kemi Badenoch achieved "considerable progress" during their frank discussions on various difficult issues related to the proposed India-UK Free Trade Agreement (FTA), according to an official statement. "The meeting between Minister Goyal and Secretary Badenoch was marked by a shared understanding and a commitment to advancing mutual interests. The ministers identified and focused on low-hanging fruits, which included the closure of several chapters in the negotiations," the statement issued by the Commerce & Industry Ministry noted
