Maruti Suzuki India, which commenced export of vehicles from India almost four decades ago, achieved the milestone of three million cumulative exports after a shipment carrying 1,053 vehicles sailed from Gujarat's Pipavav port on November 24.

The three millionth vehicle was part of a shipment carrying models such as Celerio, Fronx, Jimny, Baleno, Ciaz, Dzire and S-Presso. Maruti Suzuki exported 1,81,444 units in April-October of FY25, marking a growth of 17.4 per cent over the same period last year.

The company exports 17 models to nearly 100 countries. Latin America, Africa, Asia and West Asia are important export markets for the company, an official release from the company said.

DIVERSIFICATION PLAN
"Our exports from India

The three millionth vehicle was part of a shipment carrying models like Celerio, Fronx, Jimny, Baleno, Ciaz, Dzire and S-Presso have grown by three times from four years ago. Inspired by this global demand, Maruti Suzuki is determined to diversify and ramp up vehicle exports to 7.5 lakh units by 2030-31," said Hisashi Takeuchi, MD & CEO, Maruti Suzuki India.

"Today, 40 per cent of passenger vehicles exported from India are from Maruti Suzuki, making us the number one vehicle exporter in the country," he added.

Maruti Suzuki clocked the one millionth milestone in vehicle exports in FY13, followed by the next million in little less than nine years in FY21.

The progression from two million to three million cumulative exports was achieved in just three years and nine months, making it the fastest million for Maruti Suzuki, the release added.
